Child Custody Decisions and Domestic Abuse

Film screening and a panel discussion

NO WAY OUT BUT ONE is the award-winning, controversial independent documentary that tells the remarkable story of Holly Collins, an American woman who kidnapped her own children to save them from a life of abuse at the hands of their father. Holly went on the run, and became an international fugitive, pursued by the FBI. She and her children are the first American family to ever be granted asylum by the government of the Netherlands, due to domestic violence.

Featured speakers:

Stacey Platt, Associate Director for the Civitas ChildLaw Clinic at Loyola Univ. School of Law
